

LUBBOCK

At the southern end of the High Plains, Lubbock sits.
Its Silent Wings Museum honors
America's WWII glider pilots.

Lake Landmark shows us ancient fossils and other old remains, and Texas Tech Red Raiders throw tortillas during games.

Despite its
windy weather,
the region's good
at growing cotton,
and native Buddy Holly's music will never be forgotten.

Through either Abilene or Wichita Falls, we now will travel to the largest Texas metroplex via roads both paved and gravel.
