

Roses may be what the world's "rose capital" is so famous for,
but did you know Tyler can offer so much more?

Peaches and cotton were once how this county seat made its mark,
and sweetgums, post oaks, and loblolly pines
all grow in Tyler State Park.

Nearby Blackburn Crossing
Dam turns the Neches into Lake Palestine.
Heisman winner Earl Campbell once ruled
the local high school football scene.

Now back on the road, headed southwest down Highway 31,
past Athens and Corsicana—Waco, here we come.
